

“Earth to Heart”

Analogy

The earth is divided into 4 main layers; 1st the inner core, 2nd the core, 3rd the mantle and 4th the crust, (the crust is the layer where we preside and inhabit). The core is composed mostly of Iron and Nichol and is so hot that the outer core is molten, with about 10% sulphur. The Inner core is under such extreme pressure that it remains solid. Most of the earth's mass is in the mantle, of which is composed of iron, nickel, magnesium, aluminum, silicon and oxygen silicate. At over 1000 degrees the mantle is solid but can deform slowly in a plastic manner. The crust is much thinner than any other layers, and is composed of the least dense and sodium aluminum-silicate minerals. Being relatively cold, the crust is rocky and brittle, so it can fracture in earthquakes.

Now, make a fist with your hand and imagine that your fisted-hand is a representation of your heart. The inside of your heart is divided into four main layers to the surface, as the earth is divided into four main layers to the crust. Now, open your hand face out and you will notice that there are four lines extending out from the center of your hand in all four directions to the end. Each one of us has those lines in our hands.

As for me, it is the depiction of my personal feelings revealing the essence that is felt in my heart. The four lines represent the four layers of my life. The 1st line is the 1st layer that represents and is the most important part in my life of Jesus Christ that will always remain uncompromised. The 2nd line or 2nd layer represents the Positive side (the part that makes me feel good about myself), The 3rd line or 3rd layer represents the Negative side (the part that makes me feel bad about myself) The 4th line or 4th layer represents the security side (The defense against an offensive foray toward the sensitive part of the feelings felt in my heart).

Everyone has their own depictive heart that represents the four main layers in their life but, the only thing that really matters is what the essence of those layers is? It's a personal choice of feelings for everyone.
