Annotation: It's really sad that these living species are defenseless against us as was the dinosaurs against an asteroid, don't you think? Yet, it made room for us to evolve!

Scientists have found and described approximately 1.75 million species on our planet Earth. Plus new species are being discovered every day yet, with our scientific technology of today, we have yet, to find or detect life of any form elsewhere from or on any other planet. Life could not exist if it were not for (The Science of God's Earth) that is due to being the exact distance orbiting around our Sun and Moon to be able to sustain life, as we know it here on our planet Earth! Think about it, it is Incredible, isn't it? With the combination, it creates the Air that we breathe, the warmth that we need, the Water that we drink, and the food that we eat and scientifically much, more! There are more Stars, Planets and moons in our universe than that of each and every grain of sand on every beach of our planet yet, we have a hard time comprehending the significance of our life forms in comparison to it. No, this can't be a fortuitous thought of a probability because; it is highly improbable of an extraordinary event to consider. We can't even be found under a microscope in contrast to the Universe! Thus, the only logical thinking can only be (The Analytic Miracle) of creation of all life forms.
